DR. CRAIG LIEBENSON, director and chiropractor at L.A. Sports and Spine, brings the first installment of his Prague School to Athletic Development course series to Calgary on Sept. 15-17/17. This series translates Dr. Liebenson's knowledge of the School's philosophies and notable clinical experience into a comprehensive knowledge- and skill-based seminar on functional assessment and core training. PS2AD: FUNCTIONAL ASSESSMENT AND CORE TRAINING aims to (1) expand knowledge of rehabilitation and performance concepts, such as the difference between functional and structural pathology of the motor system, tri-planar dysfunction, regional interdependence in the kinetic chain, the relationship of pain and disability and developmental kinesiology and (2) guide the application of this knowledge, thereby enhancing skill and technique in various assessment and treatment methods, such as a functional screen and an assessment-training-reassessment process, as well as functional goals, the appropriate starting point of care, when to progress and regress treatment and where to mobilize versus stabilize.
